■Overview and Highlights of this Report

FineToday announced its support for the TCFD recommendations in June 2022, and for the first time it launches a TCFD Report.*2

In this report, the company discloses information according to the four key areas stipulated in the recommendations, namely, governance, strategy, risk management, and metrics and targets. We have established an interdepartmental working group and have been promoting climate change response measures. As a result, we have identified climate-related risks and opportunities and have conducted scenario analysis to measure long-term impacts.

FineToday will continue to promote measures to address climate change while disclosing information in line with the TCFD recommendations.
